Free Elephants, Vietnam

reported by Timothy J. Bohan, a Pathfinder Brother

Free Elephants! I heard Bob Smoker, Charlie 2-506, say this at the 2014 Myrtle Beach Reunion. He was addressing a group of us one evening about a plan he had. I wondered if we would hear about elephants living free, or if we would go with him to free elephants held captive somewhere. The answer, I learned was the latter, but with a surprising twist. I was the elephant.

Bob explained to us how a baby elephant can be securely tethered to a stake driven into the ground. Pulling with all his strength he cannot move the stake.

Years pass and he grows strong. He is strong enough to easily pull the stake from the ground. But, he never loses the memory of the baby elephant, and does not try to pull the stake from the ground.

My elephant memory is that of my big brother, PFC Patrick J. Bohan. He was this 15 year old boy's idol, the cool handsome athlete that all the football players looked up to. His girlfriend was the most popular girl in the class, and when the Homecoming Queen did not have a date he was her escort to Homecoming. And he taught this little brother about dating girls. He played every sport, rode motorcycles, was everyone's friend, and loved this country. When he was needed, he volunteered. He did not wait to be called.

When training with the 101st Airborne he learned about the Pathfinders. Or, maybe they learned about him. He continued his training with the Pathfinders, so he could be more and do more when he got to Vietnam. And that is what he did until July 10, 1970, when he was killed on Ripcord while bringing in helicopters to evacuate the wounded.

That was when my elephant memories turned painful: There is the soldier at the front door Sunday morning, my mother screaming for God to take her, NOT her son! Taking the officer to our church to get a priest, and waiting behind the alter of the packed church to tell the priest why he needed to come home with me right now; back home the never ending stream of family, neighbors and friends coming to see my parents; the funeral and 21-gun Salute. But, most difficult was the loss of my compass, my big brother, who was supposed to be there, to help guide me in the years ahead. The cause he gave his life to was difficult to talk about. Too many people did not understand the mission these soldiers faced, and the personal sacrifice that required.

These painful memories were summed up in one word, Vietnam. For most of the 45 years since Ripcord I stopped telling Pat's story. The pain it brought back was uncomfortable for me and the person hearing it. It often seemed like the best conclusion was our conviction that there would "Never be another Vietnam!" And for

FROM THE EDITOR

Frank Marshall A/2-506

Well, it is now year 2016. Do you remember where you were in 1970? If you are like me, you remember it well. Some things you want to forget, and then there are things you just can't forget. The one good thing to remember is how the Ripcord Association has brought so many good friendships together.

I hope that you had a chance to read Chris Brady's book, Remembering FireBase Ripcord. I have been receiving a lot of good reviews on it. Chris interviewed over a hundred Ripcord veterans to get all the facts. It would be nice if Hollywood picked up the book and made a movie. Keep spreading the word about Ripcord and maybe someday it may happen.

The website War History On Line did a story about the worst battles of Vietnam and missed Ripcord. Thanks to Ron Hudson for contacting them, they plan on doing a Ripcord story. (see more about this on next page).

Mark your calendars for future reunions, 2016 Springfield, MO, 2017 Laughlin, NV, 2018 Myrtle Beach, SC, 2019 Indianapolis, IN, 2020 Indianapolis, IN.

We are up to 749 members in our Ripcord Association and only 198 receive newsletter via Postal Mail and 552 receive the newsletter via e-mail. If you do not need the postal mail delivery of the Ripcord report newsletter, please let me know at frank@ripcordassociation.com and we will send you the newsletter by e-mail in .pdf

Don't miss our newsletters and updates. Remember to always update your change of address or e-mail on our membership forms on our website. We are good but we are not psychic so you will be off our mailing list.

I am hoping to see you all at future reunions. Since I am now living in Myrtle Beach, I know I will be at that one.

Top Ten Vietnam Battles Omitted Ripcord:

I browse Facebook a great deal and came upon a military history site (War History On Line). Given the title of "Top Ten Vietnam Battles," I ran down their list expecting to see Ripcord: nothing, nada, zip, zero.

Well, I fired off an email, trying to be concise but emphatic that they had omitted a very significant battle as evaluated by any criteria. For effect, I mentioned a college of mine, and threw in some old titles I had and asked for an explanation. Being at least a fair soldier I gave a sitrep to Frank Marshall. Frankly, I didn't know if we would hear back from them.

They responded by saying that they seemed to have missed FSB Ripcord. (I'll bet no one ever said that before). They advised that they will do an exclusive article which will highlight Ripcord with more detail than putting it in with the other ten. I asked how long and they said it would take a few weeks to get a writer for it and get it out.

Meanwhile Frank fired off another volley, whereupon the Editor said he has had a number of comments regarding Ripcord and again giving the same time frame. We will continue to wait first to see if they write an article and second to see if they threw something together. In fairness, it will be an article so it won't be extensive but lets see.

Have keyboard will travel.

JERSEY RAMBLINGS

by Lee Widjeskog A/2-506

The reunion in Springfield went off very well! Kathy and I got there early and had Sunday dinner at the Hemingway Restaurant in Bass Pro. Excellent food! Once the reunion was over and all the bills paid we hopped in the truck and headed out to Arizona to spend some time with my oldest sister living in Tempe. This time we decided to take Rt. 60 from Springfield to Oklahoma and into Texas. We noted all the wind farms scattered around the horizon and a lot of open ground by New Jersey standards. Needing a place to stay for the night we stopped in the Oklahoma crossword puzzle answer "Enid". No sign of crossword puzzles there.

In Texas we picked up I-40 and headed to the Painted Desert and the Petrified Forest. Near Amarillo we passed the Cadillac Ranch. We had stopped there previously but just glanced to insure it was still there. The color of the cars has changed but that happens quite often.

We had been to the Painted Desert and Petrified Forest before but this time we went to the desert first. We found this was a better way to visit the national park if you have time. The desert is best seen in the morning light and you can appreciate the forest if you come from the north since the best portions are close to the southern entrance/exit so it just gets better and better as you travel to the south.

By this time we wanted to get to my sister's so we hustled along the interstates into Tempe. While there, we visited the botanical gardens and traveled down to Tucson and Sierra Vista to visit the Kartchner Caverns State Park and the Saguaro National Monument. The cavern was nice and cool. It is carefully maintained with special care being made to prevent the introduction of outside elements that might be attached to people. They want to be notified if you touch the wall so it can be later cleaned. I've been in hospitals that were less particular! Great tour and very interesting.

The Saguaro National Monument is all about cactus. Big, little, live, dead you name it. For those not familiar with the west, the saguaro cactus is the tall one that has branches to give an arm-like appearance at times. They often exceed 12 feet in height! Amazing!

After a week we decided to head home once more but not directly. We drove north and stopped at the Tonto Natural Bridge State Park. This natural bridge is composed of travertine, a sedimentary rock form by the precipitation of carbonate minerals, and is the largest known of this material. Its existence was first documented in 1877 by David Gowan who found it while being chased by Apaches. We saw no Apaches but did have a nice hike down to the base.

Later that day we visited the Sunset Crater Volcano and Wupatki National Monuments. Such a visit gives you an appreciation for all the lava and cinders that form a lot of the hills in the southwest. The remains of the Wupatki Pueblo, shows the abilities of this early American people. It was inhabited during the 1100's and shared techniques from a number of different native cultures.

Following a night in Flagstaff, we proceeded to Monument Valley. This land contains many lone standing monoliths we have all seen in Westerns for years. These structures have been created by wind, water and ice erosion over the past 65,000,000 years. The orange-red sandstone helps give it its unique appearance. It is a color that is found all over Arizona, Utah, Colorado and elsewhere in the western states. We took the driving tour and found it just as amazing as it was when we first saw the area in 1976.

As time was getting short, we motored on down Rt. 160 into New Mexico and dropped down to the Three Rivers petroglyph site off Rt. 54. Here a short walk exposed us to hundreds of pictures carved on the rocks. It was truly interesting to see and realize another culture was attempting to tell what they knew and saw. Some of it we might understand but much is long lost to current memory. Much as this newsletter may be in 300 years or less!

From New Mexico we went back to Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio (with a quick stop at the American Motorcycle Hall of Fame), West Virginia, Pennsylvania and finally New Jersey. It was great to be home once more, but we are already planning our next trip to the far west. It is time to do our 10 year inspection of the progress on the Crazy Horse Mountain in South Dakota so that may be where we head in 2016. But in the meantime we must prepare for the Springfield, Missouri reunion this coming October!!

See you there!

Ripcord on Facebook

by Anthony Chritchlow

<https://www.facebook.com/groups/ripcordassociation/>

Hello from sunny Idaho. We continue to grow on our Facebook page. 555 as of Jan 22. Seems to me we get about 7 to 10 people a month.

I hope everyone survived the big snow of Jan 22/25 2016. If you have any pictures of Ripcord please post them on our facebook page, also pictures of your time in Vietnam are welcomed on our page.

But still keep your jokes and non Ripcord posts to a minimum. I'm ok with 1 a week. That still means we will be buried in them with 555 members. Use your best judgment on this. We want this to be about FSB Ripcord.

I'm interested in if you have read the book remembering FSB Ripcord. Keep us informed on what you thought about it. I'm currently reading it. I cannot tell you guys too many times, thanks for keeping me safe on Ripcord. To tell you the truth I always knew we were in a bad place on that mountain. I just never knew how much danger there was out there. So again guys my never ending thanks.

Enjoy your spring and summer.

Anna Britt Nolan Trust

by George and Mary Murphy

Hi, Everyone,

We hope you had a Very Happy Holiday Season! With the new year, we ask that you continue to keep Keith Nolan's daughter, Anna Britt, in your thoughts and help her make her college dreams come true. She is now a Sophomore in high school and, like her father, loves to write.

Take care,
George and Mary

INCOMING MAIL

Lee,

I have just found out that Jacob Pioche “Chief” of C 2/506 died of pneumonia almost a year ago at his home in Farmington, NM. Condolences can be sent to his wife Larissa Pioche at 3809 Buckingham St., Farmington, NM 87402

Charlie Tipton

Lee,

Sorry to hear about the death of “Chief”. A clerk typist that wanted to walk point!!! He was quite a character! I remember an occasion when we were at Eagle Beach on Stand Down and he snuck out of the compound and went to the Seabee’s bar and really got in trouble with Lt. Lieb. He was a very brave soldier. I was always a little at ease when he was on point.

Andy Giles

Frank,

I am trying to find Clifford Franks from A 2/506. He was with me and John Kreckle all the way on July 22 during the battle. If anyone knows where he is now let me know.

Dear Lee

First of all, I was saddened to hear that John Mihalko passed away on the morning of 18 Sat. 2015. I spoke to Kathleen Mihalko on Monday, she called me about John, and from diagnosis to his passing was 4 days. I spoke with her about 30 mins. and she called me from her daughters home in Nebraska.

Lee, I’ve enclosed a check for $50.00 for the Ripcord Association in memory of John Mihalko.

I have also recieved word about the new FSB Ripcord book, maybe will be out by 1st week of November.

Lee, another donation will be sent to you in November for the Anita Britt Foundation.

Take care, I hope the reunion was a great success

THE BIG READ

Jeff Wilcox

The Big Read is a nation-wide month-long program where high school seniors read a book and then there are events throughout the community about the book. This fall they read The Things They Carried by Tim O’Brien. Unlike his other war books, this one is fiction. Because O’Brien was an infantryman in Vietnam his characters, dialogue, situations, stories, and technical aspects are right on.

Two things from the book struck me. The first is what it means to be a soldier. Humping through mountains, boredom, and moments of panic in combat. He wrote with great respect for the Combat Infantryman’s Badge. Also, I learned that from the top down officers were expected to treat soldiers as interchangeable units. However, at the company level, with some exceptions, they were treated as human beings.

As part of The Big Read in West Michigan, students filled an armory with art based on the book or their feelings about it. It was really impressive. There were 24 activities - discussion groups, film screenings, concerts, lectures all over town like at the library, restaurants, churches, and the senior center. Tim O’Brien gave a speech and met with veterans for breakfast.

As one of 6 area vets selected to go into classrooms to talk about my experience of Vietnam, I visited 3. My talk was based on the things we carried (ammo, water, etc.), the things I carried (such as photos), and what many veterans still carry today (memories, PTS and Agent Orange). The students had a lot of questions about what I had brought that day - the wallet I had in Vietnam, my photos of Ripcord, my CIB. In a thank you note one student said, “Hearing about the conflict directly from a veteran really helped me understand its reality in history.”

I heartily recommend The Things They Carried. Maybe your school district would be interested in assigning this book. As one teacher said, “You gave history a face and a voice.” It was a very satisfying experience.

KIA photos needed

by Lee Widjeskog A/2-506

We are planning ahead for the 50th anniversary of the Battle of Ripcord. I would like to get a photo of each of the men who are listed as casualties of the battle.

Using the list Frank Marshall published in the August 2015 newsletter I have assembled pictures of all but the twenty listed below. If anyone reading this has a picture of the soldiers listed please contact me so I can get a copy for the 2020 reunion.

I know this is a little in advance but time goes by so quickly and sources of pictures change all the time with deaths, moving, marriages, divorces etc. So if you can help do so right now!

Thank you!

myself I found a confidence that I could face any trial, after losing my big brother.

However, a few years ago I read Keith Nolan's book, Ripcord, and learned that Pat was part of a story that needed to be told. I got to my first Ripcord Reunion in Myrtle Beach, and also learned how new memories of Vietnam could soften the pain I still feel. They could free my Elephant memory! It was time to follow my brother's path; to add another chapter to his story; to my story.

In November, 2015 I traveled to Vietnam and to the A Shau Valley where Ripcord is located to honor my brother's memory. I went with my son, Louis Bohan, Bob Smoker C/2-506 and our friend Gary Zimmerman. In Hue we were joined by Thuyet Nguyen, a South Vietnamese soldier interpreter for Delta 2/506. Thuyet was in the Ripcord AO up to the last weeks in July. Though he has continued to live in Vietnam, this was his first return to the A Shau Valley. Ripcord remains inaccessible. But with Thuyet and a government official from A Luoi we climbed Hamburger Hill just 10 miles to the South to honor our fallen brothers. This remains a sacred ground for all who paid the ultimate price. Under a Pagoda near the top we paid tribute to their memory. There I presented Thuyet the Ripcord coin that Major General Ben L. Harrison entrusted to my care at the 2015 Ripcord Reunion in Springfield, Missouri. It was a rewarding moment to return a favor on this remarkable journey of discovery. Thuyet's communicating for us opened doors to a Vietnam we may never have seen.

Vietnam and Ripcord are no longer names or memories to painful to talk about. They are living growing stories of a journey to honor our brothers who gave their all, and discover a beautiful country full of welcoming people.

*Timothy J. Bohan,
a Pathfinder Brother*
